GOVERNOR HARMON GIVES HIS REASONS FOR RECALLING TROOPS TO COLUMBUS

Finding that the local authorities were unable to suppress rioting and lawlessness at Columbus, Governor Harmon resolved to assert his authority as chief executive of the state and assume control of the situation. He did this, as he explains, on his own motion to put a stop to violence and to restore order in the Capital city. After ordering out a sufficient force to cope with prevailing conditions, Governor Harmon issued the following statement setting forth his reasons for recalling the troops to Columbus:

"I have ordered a portion of the National Guard to report for duty at Columbus forthwith.

"I have done this of my own motion under my authority as governor. The police force of this city, which is entirely too small at best, has been reduced and demoralized by the open mutiny of many of its members. It has shown itself incapable, without help, of maintaining order.

"A continuance of this condition would disgrace the state and inflict grievous injuries on its capital city. Wherever the blame rests, for it surely rests somewhere, the menace of the situation is beyond question. And I am unwilling to let lawless violence run unchecked, for lack of sufficient force to put it down, while the police force of the city is being recruited and reorganized and the sheriff is summoning the men of the county to uphold the public authority.

"It does not mend matters to say the local authorities should have taken these steps sooner, though this is true. Let them be taken now without delay. Meanwhile the troops will render whatever assistance is needed.

"The state expects every citizen promptly to show his colors and lend his aid, so that the emergency which the guard is summoned to meet may speedily be brought to an end and Columbus and Franklin county prove themselves worthy of the right of self government by meeting its responsibilities. The public interests now wholly overshadow the private controversy which is the occasion of the grave danger that, if permitted to continue, would threaten the foundations of the government, and the first care of all citizens must be to maintain law and order, because otherwise no man can enjoy his individual right, whatever they may be."

Judson Harmon, Governor, Columbus, O., Aug. 15, 1910.

ADDITIONAL EXPERIENCE

Speaking of experience, there are Judges Crew and Sumner, both members of that august body called the supreme court of Ohio, which gained some distinction during the past two years for its contention over the appointment of elevator attendants at the state house as one of its most coveted privileges. Never before did the supreme court of Ohio make such a record for "experience."

Suppose we change that "experience" a little by electing to the supreme bench Judge Donahue of Perry county and Judge Johnson of Springfield.

The supreme court of Ohio is sadly in need of a change in experience.

THEN THE SKIES FELL

What a cataclysm was that when the New York Republican committee turned down for temporary chairman of their convention the only man on earth who believed he is competent to rule the universe. It was enough to drive the planets from their course and cause the political skies to tumble in confusion.

Now, all that is necessary is for the great tamer of the African jungles to sally forth and compel the delegates to choose him for permanent chairman and give him a chance to spit fire and brimstone when the convention assembles.

By all means let the only living ex-president be called to show that Ajax was a mere amateur. With the big stick in full swing over the heads of the terrified and untried delegates to the New York Republican convention, the skies will surely come down.

CANNON FIRES A BROADSIDE

Speaker Cannon got so "hot up" by this dog-days weather the other day that he said, "I expect to be re-elected to congress by an overwhelming majority, and then I will be a candidate for speaker, but always subject to the will of the people. If I am beaten in the caucus, which I believe is remote, I will willingly take my place in the ranks."

That being the case "Uncle Joe" will construe the election of a Republican majority in the next congress as an expression of "the will of the people" in favor of his re-election as speaker.

What are the Republican candidates for congress in Ohio going to do about this deft of Speaker Cannon? They make a lot of noise about being "against Cannon" while they are candidates, but after they get back to Washington when the election is over it will be easy enough for them to "abide by the caucus decision, as Wobly Thomas did last year.

Notice that Uncle Joe says the prospect of his being beaten in caucus is remote. The way to make it less remote is to elect 21 Democrats to congress from Ohio in November.

THE PAN-AMERICAN RAILWAY

The Pan-American congress now in session at Buenos Ayres has approved of resolutions which extend the life of the Pan-American railway commission; and it urges the preparation of a plan and a budget for building the through rail route from Mexico City to Buenos Ayres—a route of which detached links are already in existence. It is estimated that about 3600 miles remain to be built, and in the Andes, after leaving the Isthmus of Panama, engineering difficulties will be encountered similar to those successfully overcome by the builders of the Oroya railway in Peru and the Transandean railway through the Uspallata Pass between Chile and Argentina.

It is at present possible to go by rail from the United States to the border of Guatemala, the first of the Central American republics to the southward of Mexico. The present so-called Pan-American railway leaves the Tehuantepec railway at Gamboa, near the Pacific port of Salina Cruz in Mexico. From Gamboa to Tomala, 176 miles, there is a daily train; from the latter point to Tapachula, 417 miles from Gamboa, there are three trains a week; from Tapachula to Mariscal, 40 miles further on, there is one train a week, early Sunday morning. The road is brand-new, and the facilities will be improved as time goes on. Guatemala and Mexico are arranging for an international bridge across the Suchiate river. From Ayutla, on the Guatemalan side of the river, the grading has been completed for a link of 25 miles to connect the Pan-American with the Guatemalan railways. It is wholly probable that within a year through Pullmans will run from Mexico City to Guatemala City.

In Salvador, the next country in order, a line was begun on April 15, to connect with the railway system of Guatemala. The concessionaire is to receive $7,000 in gold from the Salvadoran government for every kilometre constructed. The Costa Rica railways run in the wrong direction, and will be of no use to the Pan-American route except as lateral "feeders": the railway from Corinto to Granada in Nicaragua may, however, be of material assistance to the project. If the Nicaraguans ever stop fighting; and in Panama the preliminary survey has been completed for a line from Panama to David, some 300 miles distant and near the Costa Rican frontier.

The Guayaquil-Quinto railway in Ecuador will be a further link in the Pan-American system; there are short lines in Peru and Chile that should prove useful, and when Valparaiso, Chile, is reached the Pan-American railway builders are at the end of their troubles. By the Transandean railway thence to Buenos Ayres the journey can now be made in 36 hours (including a stop of 12 hours at Los Andes), the expense being $68.13, with an allowance of 50 pounds of hand baggage free.

The consummation of the project of a Pan-American railway is by no means so chimerical as many ill-informed persons suppose, and the hearty support of the scheme by the present Pan-American congress will accelerate the coming of the day when it will be possible to make an all-rail journey from Philadelphia to the South American counterpart, the capital of the Argentine Republic—Philadelphia Ledger.

WHITE RIBBON COLUMN

Edited by Mrs. Thos. Weir

Motto—I am but one, but I am one, I can not do every thing, but I can do something. What I can do, I ought to do, and what I ought to do, by the help of God I will do.

Meetings first and third Tuesdays. County convention at Brink Haven, Aug. 24 and 25. A most instructive time is expected. A program that will make every one want to go will be held. Some of the good things:

Miss Rose Davidson will be with us and address us the first evening and Grand Gold Medal contest for second evening. Don't miss it. If you can't go both days come one.

Be sure to pay your debts before convention. We want 300 paid memberships.

Now be careful and see you do your part and help some one else to theirs. Cultivate the three G's: Grace, Grit, Gumption.

Interest your neighbors in the cause, bring them along. Wear the white ribbon. Bring your voice with you and use it.

Call on your sick sister. Tell her about the good meeting she missed.

Living in God's Tune—A number of years ago Francis E. Willard made a temperance address in Boston. During her stay a young man called upon Wendell Phillips, who entertained until late at night telling of old abolitionist days and showing him relics of their struggle. As the young man rose to depart he said to Mr. Phillips: "Mr. Phillips, I think if I had lived in your time I would have been heroic, too." Mr. Phillips, who had gone to the door with him, pointed to the saloons down the street and his voice was keen with indignation. "Young man," he said, "you are living in my time and God's time. Did you hear Francis Willard last night? Be assured that no man could have been heroic than you is not now. Good night."

"Will alcohol dissolve sugar?" "It will," replied Old Soak. "It will dissolve gold, and brick houses and happiness and love and every thing else worth having." Bad habits bring big harvests where we least expect them some times.

We are sure to feel sorry for our sick members, our aged ones, so remember you are remembered ever, even if we don't get to call on you always when we would like to.

The next meeting is press meeting, and we want to thank both papers for their great kindness in printing W. C. T. U. pieces, work of any kind for the courtesy that has been extended to us and I want to assure the editors that 700 women or more of Knox county send them their thanks and appreciation. Long live the editors and the papers, who have so generously aided in our work. We go to convention with the assurance they will at least say we did what we could.

Every little helps in this work. Remember the story of the mushroom, the softest, weakest growth known, and how thousands of them coming up under one great granite stone in the pavement lifted it out of place in a single night. One person may be feeble in itself, but thousands united against these evils may be able to life them out of our way.

W. C. T. U. held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Barnett, corner Pleasant and Division streets, on Tuesday afternoon.

A good crowd was in attendance and a good program and business meeting carried out as follows:

Song.

Devotionals by Mrs. Babbs, who read the 12th Chapter of Romans. Meeting was then opened by the president for business.

Convention at Brink Haven Aug. 24 and 25. Twenty delegates were chosen for the convenient distance, all can attend. A good program has been prepared, and all are cordially invited.

Program was in the hands of the press superintendent and was as follows:

Song by Union.

Recitation, Master, What We Are Doing—Mrs. Thomas Weir.

Solo—Mrs. McFeely.

Reading—Miss Patterson.

Song—Miss Dorothy Kizer.

Reading—Mrs. Clarke.

Music.

Recitation—Mrs. Lindsay.

Press as an Evangelist—Mrs. Beane.

Song, by Union.

After which the Union adjourned for the social hour, delicious refreshments being served by the committee. Adjourned to meet with Mrs. Nixon, September 6.

Remarkable Picture of Mayor Gaynor After He Was Shot

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Just as Mayor Gaynor of New York city was shot on Aug. 9 by James J. Gallagher he was bidding friends goodbye on the deck of the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse preparatory to a vacation of a month in Europe. A photographer of the American Press Association had gained the mayor's permission to take a snapshot, and as the bullet struck behind Mr. Gaynor's ear and he was about to fall the above picture was taken. It shows also one of the passengers on the steamer assisting in holding Mayor Gaynor and summoning assistance.

THE BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY OF FRANCIS JOSEPH

Vienna, Aug. 18—In every town and village of the polyglot dual monarchy of Austria-Hungary the eightieth anniversary of the beloved ruler, Francis Joseph I was observed today by popular demonstrations of loyalty and devotion. All public and many private buildings were profusely decorated with the national colors and portraits of the venerable monarch were displayed in great number. Te Deums were celebrated in all the churches and business, everywhere, was at a standstill. Patriotic exercises and military parades formed the salient features of the celebration in all larger communities. As usual, in deference to the wishes of the aged ruler, comparatively little money was spent for displays, while large sums were contributed to the fund for charitable and philanthropic institutions to which the emperor also liberally subscribed.

The official celebration in the capital included the usual receptions of the diplomatic corps, the heads of the parliament and the diets, the members and the two cabinets, the chiefs of the army, the navy and the various fiscal departments and of the mayor and other officials of the city of Vienna. In the morning the emperor attended the customary review of the garrison ended the official part of the celebration.

Francis Joseph I was born August 18, 1830, and ascended the throne in the early winter of 1848. He is the nestor among the world's rulers and it is a curious fact that, with the exception of the King of Greece and the Sultan of Turkey no independent monarch reigning today was alive even when Francis Joseph became Emperor-King after the abdication of his weakling uncle Ferdinand during the stormy days of the revolution. Notwithstanding his advanced age and in spite of the chain of sorrows, disappointments, misfortunes and even tragedies which have marked his career and saddened, if not embittered his life, the emperor is still hale and rugged of health and capable of enduring hardships that would tax the strength of even a much younger man. Hunting in the mountains, where the nimble game leaps from crag to crag, is still the favorite recreation of the emperor, who has at ways been a mighty nimbler and an exceptionally fine marksman. It is probably due to his love of outdoor exercise and the simplicity of his fare that he has retained his health and strength to such a remarkable degree.

The emperor's path of life has been neither smooth nor strewn with roses. He ascended the throne at a critical period, with all odds against him, and his reign has been a continuous struggle against unfortunate conditions ever since. That he succeeded, not only to maintain his throne under the most difficult conditions, but also to win the universal love of his subjects, conclusively proves him a man of unusual ability and force of character, one of the greatest rulers of modern times.

The fates seem to have conspired to make Francis Joseph the most unhappy and most sorely tried of all modern monarchs. Not only did they surround him with difficulties and obstacles of a political nature which frethrone, but they visited him with a long series of domestic misfortunes which disrupted his family, deprived him of those he most tenderly loved and loaded him down with grief and sorrow.

The unhappiness of his marriage to Elizabeth, the younger daughter of Duke Maximilian of Bavaria, was his first great trouble. There have been many theories advanced as to the causes of the alienation of the affection between the emperor and the empress. Whatever may have been the actual cause, it continued until Elizabeth was assassinated in Switzerland by the hand of an anarchist.

The next tragic event in the emperor's family came when his brother, Maximilian, the puppet emperor of Mexico, was executed at Queretaro. Maximilian's wife became insane and is still living, ignorant of her husband's fate. The saddest blow was the mysterious death of his only son, crown prince Rudolf, at his hunting lodge near Mayerling. A few years later the emperor's sister-in-law, the Duchess d'Alencon, burned to death at a charity bazaar in Paris. Archduke Johann, a nephew of the emperor, contracted a mesalliance with a dancer and disappeared with her. Louis Victor, the sole surviving brother of the emperor, disgraced himself and was shorn of his rank. Archduke Leopold, another nephew of the emperor, married a vaudeville star; Princess Stephanie married Count Louis and was banished and her daughter, Princess Elizabeth became the wife of a poor cavalry officer. His nephew and prospective heir to the throne, Prince Francis Ferdinand contracted a morganatic marriage and thus complicated the succession to the throne.

A ONE-HUNDRED-MILE SEASHORE ROAD

A beach trip of 100 miles by automobile is one of the projects which will bring Newport Bay and its various beach resorts into enviable prominence in motor circles, says the Los Angeles Times. When the roadway plans are carried out it will be possible to leave Los Angeles over smooth boulevards penetrating the beautiful groves and fields of Orange county and, emerging on the seashore from the mesas of Newport Bay country, to continue northward along miles of surf line as far as Long Beach, where another boulevard is already making connection with the city.

It will be a circular trip of nearly 100 miles without passing the same point twice. In spite of its length it will be an easy day's tour, as the roads will be smooth and there will be little other traffic on the route.

There will be many picturesque features in the construction of the road at Balboa. The approach of an automobile now seems impossible, but bridges and concrete roadways will surmount the apparent difficulties. Automobiles in Balboa will be as unique but not as strange a sight as in the old world Venice. They will cross the channels and find their way out to Balboa islands in the middle of the big bay. They will ferry across the navigable channel strip of peninsula mainland again.

SHERMAN WILL ACCEPT HONOR

Does Not Expect Fight From Roosevelt's Friends.

LEADERS WILL SCOLD CANNON

Gathering at Beverly Cottage Discusses Situation and Outlines Campaign—President Taft Will Prepare Letter For Use of Congressional Committee—Will Tell Why He Favors Continuance of Republican Party in Power.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 18.—The defeat which the New York Republican committee administered to Colonel Roosevelt when it chose Vice President Sherman temporary chairman of the state convention in preference to the colonel, was the principal topic discussed by the president and the vice president during the latter's visit to Burgess Point. There was nobody present at that conference who would talk about it afterward, but Mr. Sherman had a few remarks to make to the reporters in a general way. He is going to take the temporary chairmanship and not withdraw in favor of the colonel, he said, and he doesn't expect a fight in the convention. He wouldn't admit that there was any likelihood of the colonel making trouble, although the action of the committee did not conduce to harmony.

Some of the lines for the fight which Republican leaders knew the party faces this fall were laid at this conference. Among other things it was decided that Uncle Joe Cannon is to be reprimanded for the statement he made Monday. While it was not said so bluntly, it is understood that Mr. Sherman acquiesced in the decision to censure Uncle Joe. The politicians here who have been swinging over to the belief that the attempt at reorganization of the party would fail, and that Uncle Joe was not to be harmed, were disconcerted by this announcement. A statement from someone close to the president is said to be in course of preparation.

Taft to Prepare Letter.

President Taft was asked to prepare a letter for the use of the Republican congressional committee. The president consented. Mr. Sherman left him a mass of data, and it was said that the letter should be forthcoming in a few days. It will be sent to Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois, chairman of the committee. In the president will give his reasons for retaining the Republican party in power. No doubt the letter will contain references to the record of the party in the last congressional session; the platform it adopted at Chicago and is still carrying out, and most likely will contain a reference or two to the tariff.

There was talk also about the spellbinders who are to swing around the country to convince the voters. Mr. Sherman is to be one, and Mr. Longworth, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and probably Representative McKinley of California, who was defeated in the California primaries, may all be called on.

FOREIGNERS IN PANIC

Riot During Progress of Million-Dollar Blaze.

New York, Aug. 18.—Jersey City was so hard hit by fire that she had to call on New York for help. Before the firefighters of Manhattan and Jersey whipped the flames there was nothing left of a solid block of factory buildings but sizzling ashes, and black holes in adjoining streets marked the ruin outside the wasted block. The first cost the life of a man and $1,000,000. Only the most desperate fighting held it from sweeping over the Polack quarter, where the old tenements were crammed with families.

Within the burned block were the cork manufacturing plant of the Trustow-Pulley company, the Independent Baking Powder company's factory, the Ames rolling mills, the Ames cooperage factory and a few small buildings connected with the big shops. Just outside of the block, across Morgan street, was the big plant of the Regal Sack company. The fire leaped from the block and burned it to the ground.

The clamor and the sight of the flames working toward their homes drove the Polack tenement dwellers into a panic. They surged in the street, dragging their belongings and screaming. The police could do nothing with them without clubbing. Finally priests appeared and went about soothing the women and scolding the men. The stampede was stopped.

Fireman Spencer Babcock touched a live wire which dangled from a ceiling and was instantly killed.

May Fight in Secret.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 18.—Sporting men here got the tip that Mike Schreck, the Cincinnati heavyweight, and Tom Overby, a promising negro heavyweight of this city, who has been coming to the front rapidly, will meet in a 10-round go in a secret place near this city.

THE WORLD ON TWO WHEELS AGAIN

They say that the demand for bicycles this year is far ahead of the supply, so that the jobbers can't fill their orders. That is not surprising. The bicycle is a permanent link in the chain of mechanical transportation. It has kept its market right along better than most people suppose, being very useful to dwellers on farms and in villages. If there is a spurt in bicycles this year it is probably due to the decline in horses and the vast improvement in roads, both of them consequences of the rise of the automobile.—"Life."
